

HUBS Workshop: Understanding and implementing inclusive learning and teaching in bioscience education

Monday 3rd April 2017 09.30-16.00

MB0063, Penrhyn Road Campus, Kingston University London, KT1 2EE

09.30 Registration

- 10.00 Welcome and introduction to the workshop (Nigel Page & Lucy Jones)
- 10.15 Ice breaker: Equality, Diversity and Inclusion in Higher Education: what are we trying to achieve (group exercise) (John Tatam)
- 10.30 Presentation: Student Differentials and the Curriculum: the case for inclusive practice (John Tatam)
- 10.50 Identifying and overcoming barriers to student attainment in the curriculum (facilitated group exercise) (John Tatam)

11.30 Tea/Coffee and discussion

- 11.50 Presentations: inclusion throughout the student journey - Challenges of Transition (Hannah Parker & Nigel Page); Inclusive ethos (Ricarda Micallef & Reem Kayyali); An inclusive timetable (Gary Forster-Wilkins & Claudia Ghezzou); Aspirations and motivators in employability (Nigel Page & Lydia Ait Belkacem) (Nigel Page)
- 12.50 Summary of the morning's key debates (Lucy Jones)

13.00 Lunch and networking

- 14.00 Presentations: Digital resources for an accessible curriculum (Richard Cook); Approaches/Technologies for an inclusive curriculum (Shereen Elnabhani); Co-curricular activities (Hilda Mulrooney & Liz Opara); Involving students in curriculum development: the student perspective (Christina Michener) (Nigel Page)
- 14.45 What does an inclusive approach look like in Biosciences? - facilitated group exercise (Nigel Page)
- 15.15 Developing guidelines of good practice in inclusive learning and teaching in the Biosciences - facilitated discussion (Nigel Page)
- 15.45 Lessons learnt and transformative change (all group discussion) (Lucy Jones)
- 16.00 Close

Contact: To register to attend this event contact Nigel Page

Further information can be found here: Royal Society of Biology Events