

BioArtAttack Competition 2014

Denmead Big Body Project

Denmead School

Shortlisted for the Under 11 years category

“As part of year 1's work on the Human Body we decided to make a giant picture of the digestive system, filled with a meal!”

The children drew the outline of the system, edged it in plasticine and had a fun filled and extremely messy time filling the different parts with a pretend meal, made using a combination of real food, paint, cotton wool and plasticine. Of course there were a lot of volunteers for the last few sections as the mush turned progressively more brown and lumpy!

The children thoroughly enjoyed themselves and it gave us the opportunity to talk about why the colour and consistency of the original meal had changed so much. The excitement on their faces is clear to see!”

